City-county animal shelter site found

BY WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The Hancock County Animal Control Commission has finally found what appears to be an acceptable site for a city-county animal control shelter. The Bay St. Louis City Council unanimously approved a request Tuesday night by Commission President Cel Dumestre Jr. of Waveland to locate the shelter on the banks of the city's sewerage oxidation pond near the western city limit. The commission had previously recommended a site on an abandoned airfield near the County Fairgrounds just north of Waveland, but due to objections from surrounding landowners the group abandoned that plan. The commission had initially recommended another site near the oxidation pond, but it was discovered the property was located in a borrow pit.

The council agreed to deed a 75-foot by 600-foot strip of land near the pond to the county. Dumestre explained the shelter would be located on the southeast levy of the pond. "The 600 feet would give us an entrance to Webb Street in the event the oxidation pond is abandoned and the land is sold," the commission president explained. "When we first began looking for a site the wastewater treatment issue had not been resolved, but since the city now has a better idea of what it will do regarding this issue the property is now available," Dumestre reported. However, due to the location the shelter it will not be completely open to the public. Dumestre pointed out, "Being that close to the pond there would be a problem letting the public into the shelter facility. People might get bitten by alligators." The commission president said as soon as engineering specifications are obtained he will coordinate with the U.S. Navy Seabees in Gulfport to build a shelter building. "We had arranged for the Seabees to begin work on the shelter at the fairgrounds, but since we had a change of plans I will have to arrange another construction date," Dumestre said. Presently, Bay St. Louis and Waveland have an animal pound off of Third Street on property owned by the adjacent Alcan Cable Co. Alcan has delayed expansion plans to allow the commission time to find an acceptable site for a shelter which will serve the two cities and the county.

Hancock Board buys land for courthouse expansion

By BRENT MACEY

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors Monday authorized the purchase of land south and east of the Sea Coast Echo Building from Princess Fahy of Bay St. Louis for $40,000. The purchase price was the lowest of two appraisals for the land, Walter Gex, board attorney said.

The board stated there was a need for the land for future expansion of the county courthouse and parking. The land purchase includes a rectangular parcel of The Sea Coast Echo Building with 100 front feet on Court Street and running 191 feet from Court Street south to the L&N railroad track.

A second triangular piece adjoining the southern border of that rectangular property runs approximately 370 feet west along the railroad tracks, approximately 171 feet north toward Court Street from the tracks and approximately 344 feet back to the railroad tracks. Michael Nicaise, Hancock County Chancery clerk, said the area is approximately the size of four city lots. The board decided to purchase the land with one payment after discussing the possibilities of issuing three certificates of indebtedness at $10,000 per certificate. Nicaise said consideration of interest payments involved in purchasing the land through certificates of indebtedness was the main reason for deciding to purchase the land in one lump sum. In other business, the board heard from Mary Caillier, secretary-treasurer of the Hancock County Park Commission, concerning erosion

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The Cities of Bay St. Louis and Pass Christian will divide almost $4 million Friday when grants to both cities from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development become effective. Buddy Bynum, press secretary for Fifth Congressional District Congressman Trent Lott, said Tuesday, "HUD has awarded Bay St. Louis a $1,666,000 grant through its Community Development Block Grant Program." "The grant is to be utilized over a three-year period for gas line renovation and a small amount of housing rehabilitation," the press secretary stated. "A $2 million block grant has been awarded to Pass Christian also to be utilized over a three-year period," he reported. "The Pass Christian grant provides funds for drainage improvements, street improvements and housing rehabilitation," Bynum noted. The press secretary reported that after city applications were filed Lott contacted appropriate federal agencies to expedite federal approval. Regarding use of the Bay St. Louis funds, Ronnie Murray, local federal program's coordinator, said the grant is for

Area businessman balks at gold, silver ordinance

By BRENT MACEY

The Waveland Board of Aldermen Tuesday night heard complaints from Delmar Wilcox, owner of Waveland Realty, concerning a gold and silver ordinance adopted by the aldermen last month. Wilcox claimed the new ordinance will inhibit his business practice, stating, "If I ask my customers for their name, social security number, date of birth and driver's license and have to go to the police with the information they will tell me to go to hell, and I do not blame them." He stated customers will go to Louisiana to do business. Wilcox said he knew most of his customers and that he dealt only in checks. "Most of my customers are older ladies and they will not want to give their ages," he said. "If I get their name and put it in the ledger book, that should be sufficient." Wilcox also objected to being fingerprinted and photographed before securing a license to deal with the precious metals. "It makes me feel like a criminal," he stated. "I do not think I should have to be fingerprinted any more than any other businessman in the community." He informed the board of Biloxi City Council's repeal of the gold and silver ordinance in that city and asked the board to reconsider. Mayor John Longo stated the ordinance was passed to protect legitimate businesses and also the customers. He said the ordinance was passed to stop the illegitimate practices of people who set up business in a hotel room and leave the community within a few days. Lucien Gex, board attorney, stated the ordinance could not be changed to comply in special cases to business men who operated in the community for years. He stated alterations of that nature in the ordinance would be "discriminatory and unconstitutional." He also stated customers should not

Airpark improvement work should begin in two weeks

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Road improvements and installation of a water main and sewer crossings at Stennis International Airport should begin in the middle of this month pending state and federal contract approval. A $164,441 contract for paving some 3,000 feet of the airport's access road, installing a water main with feeder lines and placing six sewer crossings has been awarded to Carter and Mullins of Columbia. The improvements will serve a 92-acre industrial area along the eastern border of Stennis International Airport in central Hancock County. The County Board of Supervisors Monday approved a resolution from the County Port and Harbor Commission presented by W. Wilson Wehre, commission director, accepting a bid from Carter and Mullins. The commission was recently awarded a $160,000 Economic Development Administration grant for the airport work. Application for the grant was submitted more than three years ago by the county. Wehre said at a commission meeting Thursday night the total cost of the project is $217,670 with the state providing some $40,000. Consulting Engineer Michael Smith of Advanced Developments, Inc. of Bay St. Louis said project work should begin by Feb. 15 if state and federal contract approval is received. Commissioner Victor Frankiewicz asked if EDA would reduce its funding commitment due to a decrease in the contract's work scope. Smith replied, "I can't answer that question exactly, but I would presume we could spend all of EDA's money since it's a grant." EDA—Page 8A

Wehre noted, "We are issuing a change order to again include all items in our original request, but we don't have a response to it yet." Frankiewicz said he had "qualms" about building the road in the "southern end" of the airport because the area was in a "flood plain." Smith shot back, "If that area is a flood plain I'd like to know when was it designated?" Regarding bids for the EDA project, Wehre reported, "A bid from Big M Construction Co. of Picayune was protested by Carter and Mullins because the company does not have the proper licenses." The Picayune company submitted the low bid of $146,726. Southland Enterprise, Inc. of Gulfport submitted a bid of $184,803. Wehre said, "he contacted the Mississippi State Board of Public Contractors in Jackson which determined Big M not qualified to bid on the EDA project." Board Attorney Robert Genin explained the amount of the contract exceeded the company's certificate of

Delchamps Food Store opens in Choctaw Plaza

The new 28,000 square foot Delchamps Food Store opened Wednesday in Waveland's Choctaw Plaza Shopping Center on US-90 at Hwy. 603. The new store is described by company officials as "one of the latest and finest in modern supermarkets." Other Mississippi Delchamps include stores in Biloxi, Gulfport, Gautier, Pascagoula and Hattiesburg. The 59-year-old chain now extends over a four state area — Alabama, Northwest Florida, Mississippi and Louisiana — with a total of 64 stores. "We are highly pleased to add another store along the rapidly growing Mississippi area and, with this opening, we anticipate a long and happy relationship with the people in the entire area," A. F. Delchamps, Jr., president of the firm, stated.

The new Waveland store will be open 24 hours a day, seven days a week for area shopper convenience. The store covers an area of 28,000 square feet. There will be a complete selection of national brand foods, plus Delchamps' store brands — Food Club, Topco, Top Fresh, Top Frost and Gaylord. In addition, there will be a selection of non-brand, generic label items, which will save customers from 10 to 3 percent on purchases. Grand opening of the Waveland store will extend over several weeks and feature hundreds of specials and bonuses, according to the company officials. The Delchamps chain, had its beginning in Mobile in 1921, when two brothers, Oliver Delchamps and the

Democrats seeking election law change

The State Executive Committee of the Democratic Party of Mississippi is asking the 1981 Legislature to make eight changes in present election laws.

The 100-member Committee recently voted unanimously to recommend the election law changes, which will be mailed to legislators this week, according to State Chairman Danny Cupit of Jackson.

"As Mississippi's longest-tenured political party, the Democrats have been supervising elections in this state for years," Cupit said. "We believe this experience gives us the credentials to make such recommendations."

Leading the list of proposals are recommendations to require a common qualifying deadline for all candidates and changing the date of party primaries from June to August.

The present system puts those who choose to run in the primary at a disadvantage because a person could wait and see the outcome of the primary before deciding to run as independent. We believe independents ought to commit themselves at the same time as primary candidates," Cupit said. "That way voters would know all candidates on the front end and make a more intelligent choice."

Cupit said the August primary schedule will reduce the individual cost of campaigning by cutting two months off the election timetable.

Another major proposal included in the Democratic Party list is a recommendation to allow voters to cast only one vote for President instead of the present method of voting seven times, once for each Presidential elector. The Party committee said the electors' names should still be listed on the ballot, pledged to a particular presidential ticket, Cupit said.

"Voters won't be as confused; they'll know exactly whom they're voting for," he said.

Other committee recommendations include:

—Rescheduling elections on Saturday instead of Tuesday.

—Development of a program to increase voter registration by 18-year-olds.

—Allowing vacationing voters to vote by absentee ballot, with a system designed to limit fraud in the process.

—Permitting state taxpayers to check off on their state income tax forms if they wish to designate a political contribution, similar to the federal system.

—Altering state law to allow for earlier initiation of the presidential caucus process.

The proposals were initiated by the Party's Elections Committee, chaired by Dr. Douglas Conner of Starkville.

Saturday cleanup planned in Pass

The Anti-Litter Committee of the Pass Christian Area Chamber of Commerce, with support of the Pass Christian Garden Club, the Beautification Committee of the Chamber, and the City of Pass Christian, will sponsor a litter pick-up day Saturday, starting from the Community Super Market at 10 a.m.

The group will be assisted by Boy and Girl Scouts, school children and members of the St. Paul's Church CYO.

The trash will be put in plastic bags, placed on a sanitation truck and taken to the city dump.

Property owners are urged to keep their lawns clean of any litter and all are urged to make this a continuing campaign.

Residents are requested to put litter in bags in front of their homes, and these bags will be picked up.

Everyone is asked not to throw tin cans, bottles or paper on the city streets.

There is an anti-litter law in Pass Christian, and violators of the law will be prosecuted, police officials report.

Residents invited to free film

A film, "Strengthening the Home," will be shown during an open house program at the Waveland Ward Chapel of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints Friday Feb. 6, at 7:30 p.m.

"Elders Dale Thornock and Mike Ellsworth, Mormon missionaries currently assigned to the Bay St. Louis-Waveland area, will conduct a program stressing the importance of family harmony," Ward Publicity Director Jacqueline Bosley said this week.

In addition to the film the eternal nature of families will be discussed and refreshments served," she added.

The chapel is located on McLauren and Nicholson Avenue in Waveland.

The public is invited and there is no charge.

TWO-TRUCK WRECK—A 1970 pickup truck driven by Lawrence Frickie, 24, of Waveland flipped over after colliding with a 1980 pickup driven by Bernard Heaps, 37, of Route 2, Piquette, on Hwy. 603 at the southern end of the Bayou LaCrosse Bridge at 7:05 a.m. Jan. 25. A spokesman for the Mississippi Highway Patrol in Gulfport said there were apparently no injuries in the two-truck collision. The spokesman said Heaps was charged with failure to yield, but no information regarding the circumstances of the accident was available. Diamondhead Fire Rescue Unit and Hancock County Sheriff's Department also responded to the mishap. (Photo by Jimmy Varnell)

Anderson charged with embezzlement

By BRENT MACEY

Hancock County Beat Three Justice Court Judge Lloyd W. Anderson, 31, gave himself up to the Hancock County Sheriff's Department Monday on charges of embezzlement.

He was released on $1,500 recognizance bond.

Anderson was indicted by the January term of the Hancock County Grand Jury.

The indictment states Anderson converted to his own use $155, the same having come into his hands or possession by virtue of his office.

The indictment stems from an investigation by the State Highway Patrol last summer into activities of former highway patrolman Ray Silkwood.

The investigation revealed that Silkwood allegedly wrote some 8,000 tickets to motorists, 11 times more than the average patrolman issued, and turned the majority of those tickets in to Anderson.

On Monday Anderson stated, "They said I received over 50 percent of Silkwood's tickets which is a lie. They also said that I received more tickets than any other judge. This is also a lie."

Anderson said he has been 'harrassed' by the state auditor's department and said he would file suit against special investigator Cecil Jones of that department.

"I will not necessarily file suit against the entire audit department," he said.

He said highway patrolmen are currently 'afraid' to issue tickets in his district.

"Other judges are getting 300 to 400 cases a month, but if I get that many then they say that I am plotting and start an investigation," he stated.

Police officials last summer said Silkwood had issued some tickets under fictitious names and at other times did not give the motorist a copy of the ticket.

They stated both copies were given to Anderson who in turn found the motorist guilty and suspended the sentence.

The judge in turn, as in the case of all Hancock County judges, receives $10 for each case handled.

State Auditor Hamp King said at the time of the investigation that there were 'discrepancies' in the amount of money returned to the Hancock County treasury.

"Most discrepancies were about $2," he said.

Anderson said, "If I was going to steal I would not steal $155. I would make it worth while—$155 would barely pay the electric bill."

He stated he was disappointed with District Attorney Albert Necaise and the Grand Jury.

He said he had nothing against the auditors or the investigation but that, "The investigation should be done in a professional, open minded and honest way."

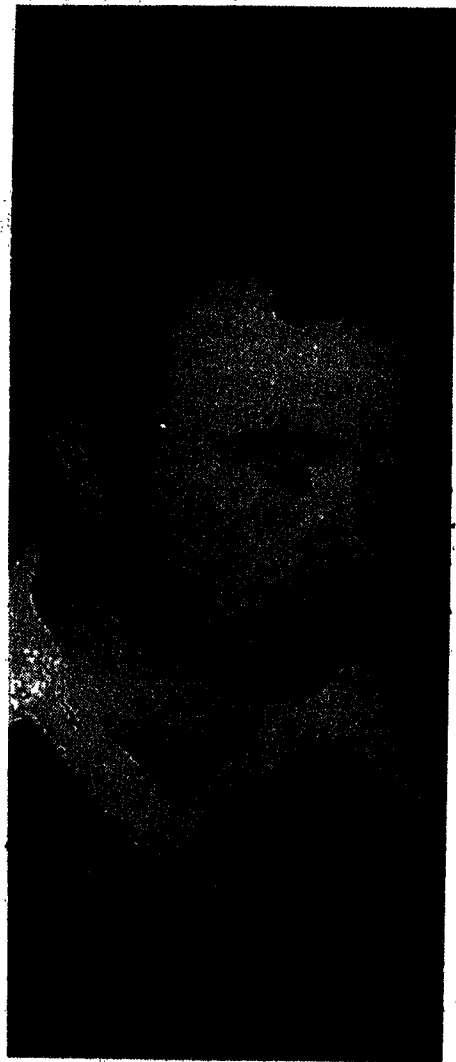

"Every official should be investigated every year," he said.

He said one judge was $70 short in the state auditing books and another was $1,300.

If they are going to be fair why don't they go back and get everybody," he said.

"The problem is that they have got a few Boss Hogs," Anderson said in reference to the popular TV show The Dukes of Hazzard.

"If they cannot run your office than that's the kind of pressure you get."

Judge Lloyd W. Anderson

object to showing their driver's license to the merchant when selling precious metals.

"They have to give their license to the cashier every time they cash a $5 check at the grocery store," he stated.

He added the social security number and the date of birth can be obtained from the license.

Waveland Police Chief Donald Dorn said a date of birth was necessary for tracing people's record on the National Crime Information Center Computer.

Wilcox also objected to having to go to the police department with information on customers before 10 a.m. every day.

Dorn told Wilcox he would be willing to go to Wilcox's business and secure the necessary information each day.

In other business, the board:

—Accepted the low bid of $6,800 by Stinson Construction Company of Bay St. Louis for rehabilitation of Edna Summers' home in the Middletown area;

—Dismissed bids for rehabilitation of Willie Harrington's home when it was disclosed that he is no longer the owner.

—Kept property in the Middletown area set for clearance under advisement until Board member Louis Smolenski, Board Engineer Ray Eaton, and HUD representative Harold Zimmerman view the sites. That inspection was slated for Wednesday.

—Kept bids for a sewer cleaner and air conditioner under advisement;

—Granted a $200 yearly donation to the —Authorized a third payment of $16,079 to Southland Enterprises of Gulfport for installation of a sewer crossing on US-90 near the Resort Inn;

—Decided to retain present speed limits set for Waveland and Nicholson Avenues after discussing the issue with Waveland Police Chief Donald Dorn;

—Discussed purchasing various location sites for construction of the city's watertower.

Merchants' officers cite record earnings

Merchants Bank & Trust Company had its annual stockholder's meeting at the Best Western Motel in Gulfport recently. Guy C. Billups Jr., chairman of the board, of Pass Christian reported 1980 earnings and dividends as well as revealing progress reports on the renovations to the, soon to be, Merchants Bank Building on the corner of 25th Avenue and 13th Street in Gulfport.

Billups recalled that prior to opening the bank's present Gulfport location in 1967, Merchants had two offices in Bay St. Louis and Waveland, 12 employees and $5 million in assets.

The chairman continued, "Thanks to the total support of directors, stockholders, staff and particularly our customers at the close of business Dec. 31, 1980, Merchants approached $55 million in total footings, had eighty plus employees and provided eight locations to serve its customers on the Gulf Coast."

"Our growth has dictated our move to larger quarters. Our new facility, which we plan to occupy by late summer, will make banking more convenient for customers and staff alike," Billups explained.

W.R. Allison, president and chief executive officer, echoed Billups' thank you. Commenting on 1980's net earnings of $690,000 Allison said, "...that represents record earnings on 93,190 shares of $7.40 per share. Also our average return on assets was 1.27 percent—excellent, when you consider most of the banking industry strives for that magic one percent return."

In closing Billups reminded stockholders of the $1.50 per share in dividends paid in 1980 and although 1981 should be another demanding year for the financial community, he is confident Merchants will respond to the challenge.

Bits 'n pieces

There seem to be many celebrations around the United States in honor of the 52 Americans.

During the Korean Conflict and more recent Vietnam Involvement the United States had hundreds of prisoners of war returned who were given no recognition whatsoever on their return.

We feel it was not right for the American people to bestow honors on one group of Americans, and ignore two other groups who really were doing more for their country at the time of their capture.

The position of the American stand during Korea and Vietnam incidents had a lot to do on American response as they ended.

Americanism started downhill with the Korean Conflict and snowballed with Vietnam.

Something for us to think about is the draft card burning and fleeing to Canada by young Americans.

The situation in Iran was an uphill fight for Americanism by Americans.

Patriotism is now at its peak in America today because of the recent release of the hostages.

We were young when World War II ended, yet we can remember the spirit of Americanism when our soldiers came home.

It is a shame that Korean and Vietnam veterans never received the honors they earned.

We hope Americans will have second thoughts about these brave men and women.

We had some say to us that they felt it was unfair for all the to do over the hostage return.

We have to think about the rallying of Americans, especially the youth of our nation.

The release of the hostages has caused this, it came at an opportune time for the United States.

Today we are closer together as a nation than we were at the end of Korea and especially Vietnam.

Think About It!

Time is fast approaching for area Mardi Gras Parades.

In a little over two weeks the Krewe of Nereids, followed by Eros and Krewe of Hancock will grace the streets of Waveland.

Just think, a little over 15 years ago, a group of women got together and decided to have a carnival Krewe.

You all know the results, it even got some men thinking years later.

We had Mardi Gras parades before Nereids, but not real Mardi Gras parades.

We hope to see you at the parades.

Fifty-year-old Feltise Jones of Ballentine Street in Bay St. Louis is fond of recounting an incident in a Jackson Hospital a few years ago when surgeons replaced both of his knee joints with artificial devices to remedy defects caused by arthritis.

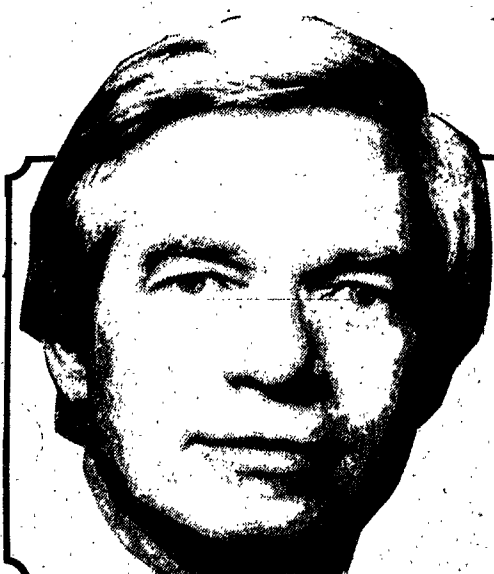

Jones says Senator John C. Stennis, who was visiting patients in the Methodist Rehabilitation Center, upon learning Jones was from Bay St. Louis, exclaimed:

"That Bay St. Louis, they named an airport after me there and three days later Hurricane Camille blew it away."

Stennis assured the patient, "You're in good hands, the Lord sent you here."

We hope the good senator knows his namesake airport has been rebuilt and is doing well.

Incidentally, Mr. Jones is also doing well with his artificial knees, except when the weather is very cold.

Senator Cochran reports

Senator Thad Cochran (R-Miss.) announced that he is sponsoring legislation requiring Congress to outline the costs to state and local government in complying with proposed new laws.

The Senator said he is joining with other Senate colleagues in authoring S. 43, the State and Local Government Fiscal Note Act of 1981.

This legislation would require the Congressional Budget Office (CBO) to outline the costs incurred by state and local governments in carrying out or complying with federal legislation.

These estimates would be limited to legislation which would have an annual cost of $200 million or more to state and local governments and which are reported by congressional committees.

The CBO was organized in 1974 to prepare fiscal notes estimating the cost to the federal government of proposed legislation.

"With the same process extended to include the costs to state and local governments, Congress could better judge if the proposed benefits are justified by these costs," Senator Cochran said.

The Senator also stated, "During this time of economic inflation, it is even more imperative that Congress be aware of the costs imposed by proposed legislation."

"It just makes good sense for Congress to have as much information as possible in considering the impact of legislation before the law is passed," Senator Cochran commented.

He noted that he cosponsored a similar bill last year that had been unanimously approved by the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee and the Senate Budget Committee. The House Rules Committee was completing work on a companion bill when the 96th Congress ended.

The new bill, S. 43, was being introduced as the 97th Congress got underway.

YELLOW RIBBON FROM CANADA—Dix Ashman stands beside the yellow ribbon he recently hung on an oak tree outside his residence in Waveland. The ribbon was sent from relatives of his wife Anne in Hamilton, Ontario, Canada and signed by Eileen and Alf Leyland, Annie, Ron and Sara Lawrence. A letter accompanying the ribbon says, "We have been watching today's inauguration and the hostage release all day and are filled with the same emotion that has filled everyone's heart for so many months. We are so happy for all concerned. So tie this yellow ribbon around your old oak tree for us, please, when all America celebrates their return." (Staff photo by Brent Macey)

RAKING OF THE PRESIDENT

By EDWIN FEULNER

"Every President, when he first enters the White House, promises an 'open Administration.' He swears he likes reporters, will cooperate with them, will treat them as first-class citizens," Timothy Crouse observes in The Boys on the Bus.

"The charade goes on for a few weeks or months, or even a couple of years. All the while the President is struggling to suppress an overwhelming conviction that the press is trying to undermine his Administration, if not the Republic...Then, sooner or later, he blows."

Perhaps the only exception to this rule was William Henry Harrison. He died one month after his inauguration.

Presidential news management has been an American dilemma ever since the birth of the Republic.

George Washington wanted a State Department clerk fired because he edited an anti-Washington newspaper. John Adams and his supporters in 1798 pushed through Congress the Alien and Sedition Acts.

Thomas Jefferson promptly pardoned all those convicted under the act when he took office in 1801, but later remarked that a few good prosecutions might restore the integrity of the press.

Woodrow Wilson once considered a federal news agency to make sure the public got the "real facts." Harry Truman maintained that in a national emergency he had the right to seize the nation's newspapers.

John Kennedy suggested that THE NEW YORK TIMES Saigon correspondent be replaced after he consistently sent dispatches at great critical and pessimistic variance from the reports he was getting from his own people.

George Reedy, a former Special Assistant to Lyndon Johnson, ascribed this long-standing antagonism between the President and the press to a fundamental dichotomy of interests that exists between newspapermen and politicians.

"Politicians, as a class, are dedicated to changing the world. With very few exceptions, they have in their minds some bright and shining ideal which is so obviously superior to what exists that it seems to be reality, with the actual world around them merely some kind of aberration," Reedy observes in The Twilight of the Presidency.

"Newspapermen, on the other hand, are bent to some degree, to the fact that it is still their principal mission to present the world as it is. The two points of view are fundamentally incompatible."

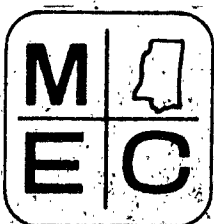

And this condition leads Reedy to the conclusion that "No amount of manipulation can ever produce newspapers that are satisfactory to political leaders or politicians who are satisfactory to newspapermen (unless George Orwell's nightmare, in which politicians had the capacity not only to produce newspapers but to rewrite the newspapers of the past, comes to fruition)."

Reedy's remarks should be instructive to conservatives, who perhaps harbored hopes that President Reagan's landslide victory signaled a one-year honeymoon between this President and the press. Unfortunately, that's just so much wishful thinking.

It's important that we accept gracefully the "bad reviews" that are bound to come and recognize the inevitability of it all. To expect anything less would be to create a dream world that has never existed in the past, and likely never will.

(Feulner is president of The Heritage Foundation, a Washington-based public policy research institute.)

MEC NEWS

The decision by the State Board of Education to raise teacher certification test scores in certain subject areas is a definite step toward enhancing the quality of education offered in the state's schools, according to the Mississippi Economic Council.

"Increasing the quality of the state's classroom personnel is of paramount importance in raising the standards of education in the state," said MEC Chairman Lewis F. Mallory, Jr., a Starkville bank executive.

"Many elements enhance the quality of a child's educational experience, but few factors have greater influence in the learning process than quality personnel."

The new scores for teacher certification concern 12 subject areas and bring the state up to the twelfth percentile nationally from the previous third percentile. The scores are from the National Teacher Examinations, and Mississippi's minimum was 850. Other states using the NTE require scores in the 1,000-to-1,100 range.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Emergency responders, telephone operator are heroes in fire incident

Dear Sir:

I wish to publicly, if belatedly, express my deep appreciation to the Bay St. Louis Fire and Police Departments, Hancock General Emergency Room personnel and an unknown male telephone operator.

When I was awakened by the sound of my smoke alarm, I discovered by living room ablaze.

The flames had shorted the electrical system. As I could not see the buttons on the phone, I managed to fumble and find the operator's button.

He responded immediately and assured me that he would contact the Fire Department.

He obviously did for by the time I tried to escape the flames and reach the door, burying both hands and one foot in the process, those beautiful firemen were coming up the steps with a hose and had the fire under control in a matter of minutes.

They remained on the scene for quite a while to make certain that there was no danger of rekindling.

The policeman on the scene (I'm mentioning no names because so many helped and I might overlook one) took me to the fire station where I was given emergency first aid by a very pretty young woman who then drove me to Hancock General's Emergency Room.

There I received immediate and effective attention.

So to all of you who helped me on the cold, dreary Sunday morning of November 23, I want you to know that you have my everlasting gratitude.

And the next time I hear anyone criticize any of these services, I'll be tempted to give them a bop on the chop!

Sincerely,
Polly Mazarakis

NEWS FROM THE GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

HUMAN RESOURCES

Governor William Winter reports the Governor's Office of Human Resources has been abolished and that two new, smaller offices will oversee the delivery of most services handled by the Human Resources Office.

Winter said the move will save approximately $252,000 in administrative costs and will allow more technical assistance to be provided to community action agencies throughout the state.

The reorganization will affect 10 employees whose jobs are being phased out. Their functions will be absorbed by existing personnel within the Offices of Federal-State Programs.

Carl Cooper, formerly of Deatur and past Director of Weems Mental Health Center, has been named Director of the new Governor's Office of Energy Assistance, which will administer the Low Income Energy Assistance Program now being offered to the public.

The arts and crafts program, previously handled by the Human Resources Office, will be transferred to the Mississippi Council on Aging with no break in service to the public, and the home weatherization program will be assigned to the Governor's Office of Job Development and Training.

The newly established Governor's Office of Community Services will strengthen the support to the community action agencies throughout the state.

Former Human Resources Director James Chandler has been tapped to head the Community Services Office.

Chandler was selected because of the experience he has had both as Director of Human Resources and as a community action agency director.

MMA ADDRESS

"If state and local government is to deliver services effectively to our expanding population, we must have intelligent, wise and courageous planning," Governor William Winter told the Mississippi Municipal Association.

"The governor asked municipal officials to prepare for future growth by working to promote economic well-being and by preserving the existing quality of life."

"While economic expansion is important to our state, I don't want us to grow in a fashion that imperils our quality of life," Winter said.

In his remarks Winter outlined several of the state's greatest needs.

He called for comprehensive planning that "ties together" energy and transportation needs. Winter wants to develop a comprehensive transportation plan that will take into account the state's highway, street, railroad, air and waterway transportation needs.

The governor also cited the need to attract more wealth and venture capital. "We must do all we can to attract additional sources of capital from outside the state, while simultaneously aiding existing small businesses in their expansion plans," Winter said.

"We must not overlook the needs of small businesses in our efforts to attract major industry to Mississippi."

Winter recently established a division within the state Department of Economic Development to meet the needs of small employers.

Winter also called for better educational and job training opportunities in the state. The governor noted that the first thing businessmen ask him is whether Mississippi can provide an educated work force with the know-how to handle sophisticated machinery.

GOVERNOR HONORED

Governor William Winter was recently inducted into the Infantry Officer Candidate School Hall of Fame in ceremonies at Ft. Benning, Ga.

Winter graduated first in his class from Infantry Officer Candidate School (IOCS) at Ft. Benning in 1944. He then served with the 86th Infantry Division in the Philippines. During the Korean Conflict he served with the 8th Infantry and later served in the 31st Infantry of the Mississippi National Guard.

Winter was selected for induction into the IOCS Hall of Fame in recognition of his distinguished career in the years following his graduation from IOCS at Ft. Benning. Winter has served in the Mississippi House of Representatives, as State Tax Collector, State Treasurer, Lieutenant Governor and Governor.

Winter is one of only 50 civilians who have been inducted into the Hall of Fame. Over 115,000 men have graduated from IOCS at Ft. Benning.

Delchamps

late Alfred Delchamps, opened a small corner grocery. Their original concept was to establish a "different type of grocery — a cash and carry store specializing in quality foods. Prior to that time cash and carry groceries were regarded as "cheap" stores, dealing in low grade merchandise.

The concept proved a success and during the ensuing years Delchamps introduced a number of firsts in the food store business...establishment of the first supermarket size store in Alabama, the first self-service store in the area, the first to convert entirely to discount, and has been a leader in extra benefits and profit-sharing for its employees.

In the spring of 1978 it became the first in the South to offer non-brand generic label products with savings from 10 to 35 percent over national brands.

Since 1964, Delchamps has been an owner-member of Topco Associates (meaning Top Companies), a national organization of leading supermarket and wholesale groups designed to bring values in merchandise to food shop-

Through Topco, Delchamps complements its national brand products with store brand products at lower prices.

The four-state chain distributes dry, non-perishables from two warehouses in Mobile; perishables and frozen foods from still another distribution center.

James A. Osborn will serve as manager of the new store; Harry A. Parent, John D. Mouchett and Marshall Holyfield as assistant managers; Kelvin D. Hager will serve as manager of the meat department, and Gary T. Joyner as manager of the produce department.

Mississippi weather forecast

Below temperatures and precipitation are forecast for Mississippi this month, according to the National Weather Service outlook distributed by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Precipitation totals usually range from about 4.5 inches to 5.6 inches, with only a few areas receiving fewer than 5 inches. Another drier than usual month will leave ground water at extremely low levels, with little chance to be recharged before planting time, says synoptologists at the Mid-South Farm Weather Service in Stoneville who prepare the forecasts.

Below normal temperatures in February will bring many more days with freezing temperatures at sunrise. Several short periods of warmer weather are possible, but these may cause fruit trees to bloom too early. Highest temperatures in normal years average in the low 60s on the coast to the low 50s in the north. Low readings average in the mid 40s on the coast to near 30 in the north. Soils are expected to be wet at the beginning of February, but most of the month will be open for field preparation, say weather experts. Cattleman may have to manage grazing time and remaining stored feed carefully because

Nereids ball slated Saturday at Coliseum

The Krewe of Nereids of Waveland will present its 15th Annual Mardi Gras Ball Saturday.

"This will be the second year the krewe has its festivities in the Mississippi Coast Coliseum in Biloxi and indications are it will be a most colorful and entertaining affair," said spokesman Sandy Wyatt this week.

"The Harry Morrell Orchestra will provide the music with narration by Norris Fitzmorris and choreography by Doug Douglas, all with many years of experience in New Orleans balls," Wyatt reported.

"In keeping with tradition, the theme will not be revealed until the night of the ball," Wyatt noted.

"All coast residents are invited to join in the festivities when the krewe parades through the streets of Waveland on Sunday, Feb. 22 at 2 p.m.," she added.

responsibility. Commissioner Dave McDonald stated, "I don't see where we have any choice at all, but to accept the bid of Carter and Mullings."

Webre said, "We do have to report to EDA and the commission should reject the bid of Big M. It would be in order to act in that manner."

Genin recommended, "What I thought the commission should do is reject the bid of Big M because the company is not qualified and accept the bid of Carter and Mullings."

"You want to make it understood prior to rejection that Carter and Mullings submitted the lowest and best bid," the attorney added.

The commission passed a motion based on Genin's recommendation with the only negative vote cast by Commissioner Bud Frierson.

Later in the meeting Smith presented his company's proposal for engineering services for the EDA project of $4,800 for 60 calendar days and $140 per day after the 60 days.

Webre explained, "The $4,800 would be payable only in the event of EDA funding. We estimate actual construction time at 100 to 180 days."

McDonald, Frankiewicz and Wehre discussed various requirements for engineering on the EDA project.

Smith noted, "I recommend if the contract is for 180 days the work should be inspected by an engineer each day. All this is standard operating procedure for EDA projects."

Webre said, "At the time we made the application we had lost our resident engineer."

"I said under ideal conditions the project could be completed under 60 calendar days," the director noted.

"Right now I recommend giving the contractor a notice to proceed, then if the company can't do the work due to bad weather, issue a stop order. I don't think the contract will run 180 days," Webre explained.

"If you get into bad weather and knock the contractor off, then the time clock stops on the project," he added.

McDonald said regarding the calendar day arrangement, "I'd like to have a job like that."

Frankiewicz stated, "I'd like the whole contract in writing. The other thing is that the whole thing is predicated on damages."

Webre reported, "I originally estimated that if the contract was let in January the contractor would need 180 days."

"The commission continues not to penalize the contractor when he doesn't live up to an obligation," the director said.

McDonald suggested, "Why don't you have Smith put it in writing so there's no misunderstanding."

Frankiewicz asked Smith, "When would you anticipate a work order will be issued for this project?"

Smith replied, "We have to submit names of contractors and then EDA usually concurs in the award."

"If the supervisors approve the commission's recommendation Monday, we could possibly issue a work order by the end of the week," Smith speculated.

"The contractor is ready to go to work. As dry as it is the contractor should not have any problems," he noted.

In other business, the supervisors Monday approved commission resolutions:

—Authorizing a 50-foot wide easement in Port Bienville Industrial Park paralleling the access road within a utility corridor. South Mississippi Electric Power Association of Hattiesburg will be constructing an electric line to Borg-Warner Chemical's plant now under construction;

—Authorizing a 50-foot easement to South Mississippi in a 300-foot wide utility corridor owned by the county which stretches from Port Bienville to US-90;

—Authorizing rescinding an earlier commission resolution for competitive bids for a spreader-grader. Webre said a Bionie Hyde spreader-grader made by Seal Manufacturing Co. of the Catahoula Community is a 'non-competitive item';

—Authorizing purchase of the spreader-grader because it is a 'single source item';

—Accepting a low bid of $53 per hour from RIT Joint Ventures Ltd. of Nacaise Crossing Community utilizing a 'back track' to clean a drainage ditch at the east end of Port Bienville Industrial Park. The contract is not to exceed $1,000.

Other business at the 7:30 p.m. commission meeting at its offices on Hwy. 603 in Waveland included:

—Accepting a proposal by John Laird, manager of land for South Mississippi, to pay the county $1,000 for timber from the 50-foot right-of-way in the utility corridor;

—Heard a report from Webre that demolition of a DC-4 aircraft at Stennis has had some delays, but only the nose of the aircraft remains to be dismantled;

—Heard a report from Smith that Mid-State Coatings has to complete two more items in its renovation of the Port Bienville water tower. The commission is retaining $2,350 on the $16,275 contract until punch list items are remedied; —Heard a report from Webre that he will hire a machinist to rework the Stennis airport hanger doors. The director said the doors do not slide properly and are a safety hazard.

Rehabilitation.....

line and housing rehabilitation area is bordered on the east by the 500 block of State Street, north by US-90, west by Washington Street and south by Nacaise Avenue.

Murray presented an estimated cost breakdown for the project at a City Council meeting Tuesday night which lists:

—Gas line renovation at $371,000 for construction, $37,000 for engineering and $25,000 for administration;

—Housing rehabilitation, which private housing will be upgraded, at $1 million and $55,000 for administration;

—Demolition of approximately six buildings at $12,000, acquisition of that property at $60,000, legal fees at $6,000 and administration at $5,000;

—Recreation improvement, which will upgrade facilities and equipment at the Washington Street park, at $25,000 for construction, $2,000 for designs and $2,000 for administration;

—General administration and planning of the overall project at $20,000;

—Contingencies (money for underbudgeted items) projected at $46,000.

Murray told the council, "I contacted HUD in Jackson and I have an idea of the program guidelines."

"They said there would be a workshop regarding this program at the end of the month. It would be in order to get an administrator for the local program," Murray explained.

The council unanimously approved a motion requesting Murray to present a proposal for administrative services. Council President Peter Benvenuti told Murray, "I commend you for the work you've done in securing these funds."

Regarding Pass Christian's grant, Mayor Zach Anthony said Wednesday afternoon the project area is bordered on the south by the Louisville and Nashville Railroad tracks, east by Davis Avenue, north by North Street and west by Market Street.

"We have some major drainage canals in that area," Anthony noted.

"We need this money and it's going to mean a big improvement in that area,"

The mayor noted that streets in the area would be improved and individual homes would be upgraded.

Anthony added that the city recently received a grant to improve homes along Martin Street.

Erosion.....

caused by the Jordan River near two roads in McLeod Park.

Caillier said the river has eroded approximately 30 feet of land in the last year along a road going toward the boat launching site in the park.

She stated the river was within 25 feet of another road in the park which runs beside the pavilion.

"I'm afraid the whole bank is going to go down," Caillier said.

She asked the board to write a letter to the Pearl River Basin Development District informing the District of the problem while also providing the District with greater incentive to contact the U.S. Corps of Engineers to solve the problem.

Norton Haas, Hancock County representative to the Pearl River Basin Development District, said the District and the Corps are aware of the problem but recommended the Board send a letter to the district anyway.

"An extra push never hurts," Haas said.

He said the district is currently in contact with the Corps in regard to a serious erosion problem in the Monticello area.

Haas said the Pearl River has eroded the river bank in that city to the point where the city hall and the library are about ready to fall in the river.

The board moved to send the letter.

In other business, the board authorized Hancock County Engineer Larry Seals to negotiate with Crown Zellerbach, a paper company with a district office in Bogalusa, to acquire clay-gravel from a topping pit located about one mile from Texas Flat Road on Crown Zellerbach's property.

Seals said the material is a necessary sub-base for paving Texas Flat Road. Seals did not know how much material will be needed at present and estimated the road would require between 30,000 to 55,000 cubic yards of sub-base material.

Also during the regularly scheduled 9 a.m. meeting in the county courthouse, the board:

—Approved a $728 dollar payment for round trip tickets for two board members, the county architect and sheriff to attend a jail study convention meeting in Boulder, Colo. Feb. 21. The money will be reimbursed by the convention, Hancock County Chancery Clerk Michael Nacaise said;

—Authorized advertisement for a new or used head-end-loader for Beat One.

—Authorized readvertisement for county pest control. The board received only one bid for the 1981 year;

—Heard a report from board member Sam Perniclaro that agencies employing CETA people must pay unemployment compensation taxes for those people beginning March 31. Payments are currently covered by the federal government. The board move to notify all county agencies currently employing CETA people concerning the law; —Took under advisement a request from Louis Breaux of Nacaise Crossing for $500 for the 3rd annual Gumbo Festival to be held in Washington D.C. Feb. 24.

Bay Junior Tigers take PRC title

The Junior High Tigers won their fifth consecutive game and nine out of the last 10 as they defeated Vancleave for the Pascagoula River Conference Tournament Chamionship in the Pass High Gym by a score of 36-33. In the first round of tourney play, the young Tigers pased the St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chows by a 39-25 score.

The Harvey brothers, Milas and Willie led the offense with 12 points each. Mark Johnson had 11 points.

In the semifinal round, the Tigers led most of the way against a determined bunch of Warriors from d'Iberville and held on to win, 34-33.

Willie Harvey led the scoring with 14 points. Milas Harvey and Mark Johnson poured in 10 each.

In the Championship game the Tigers faced a group of fired up Bulldogs from Vancleave.

The Tigers trailed in the beginning by 7 points.

However, by half time the Tigers passed the Bulldogs and led by 15-13 score.

At one time in the latter part of the game the Tigers led by as many as 10 points.

However, the Vancleave Bulldogs caught fire and caught the Tigers.

But the Tigers managed to hold on and won by a 36-33 score.

"This Championship win is the type of competitive winning attitude this young group of people displayed all year," the Junior High coach reported.

Milas Harvey led the scoring with 16 points, followed by Willie Harvey with 13 points. Gary Byrd and Gifford Pace turned in some great defensive play.

Mark Johnson, Bryon

Thomas, and David Melver led the team with some strong rebounding.

JUNIOR TIGERETTES
Bay Junior High Girls won their fifth game in a row in the first round of the Pascagoula River Conference Tournament in the Pass Christian High School gym, 38-7 over Vancleave, thus tying their record to 10-6.

In the semifinal round the Junior High Tigerettes played No. 1 ranked, Pass Christian.

The young Tigerettes led the Pass girls throughout the game until the last two minutes of play when foul trouble hit and cost the Tigerettes the game as they lost by a 32-30 score.

"This was by far the best game the Tigerettes had played all year, and it was the most heart breaking loss to endure," the coach lamented.

"It was the kind of game where you lost on the scoreboard but knew in your heart you played well enough to win," she added.

"Therefore, even though the girls did not win the game and the Championship, they did leave a tremendous impression on everyone who saw the game."

Terry Rhodes led the team in scoring with 20 points, followed by Sandy Reynolds with 14 points, Dina Benoit with 13 points, Lisa Day with 11 points, and Melissa Dorsey with 10 points in the two games played.

Local boxers take three victories in Mobile event

The Bay-Kiln-Waveland Boxing Club recently traveled to the Sage Civic Center in Mobile Ala. to participate in four matches on a 21 bout card.

Making his boxing debut with an impressive victory was Chuck Karl of Bay St.

He defeated Brian Wheat of The Ocean Springs Boxing Club with hard right hands to the head and body.

Losing by a small margin was 13-year-old John Poolson a Bay Junior High student. Poolson almost pulled the fight out in the third round leaving Joe Schmidt of Mobile dizzy and defenseless.

Having his third exhibition and winning was Brian Watts of Waveland.

Making the 250 mile round trip to Mobile and unable to get a match was Fredman Layas and Eric and Chris Whisenhunt.

Coaching from the corner was Nicky Slade. Recently certified as AAI officials and judges are Isable Escobar of Bay St. Louis, Cathy Watts of Waveland, and Lois Whisenhunt of Waveland as well as Jose Layas and Chico Ortiz.

Tickets are now on sale for a Saturday event in Bay St. Louis at the club's gym in the DAV Hall, 111 Main St. or from any team member.

Pro tennis exhibition slated in Gulfport

Dick Stockton, a world-ranked tennis professional, will play a singles exhibition against Bill McGowan, Bayou Bluff, Tennis Club head professional at 4 p.m. Monday at the Gulfport courts.

Stockton and McGowan were teammates in Trinity University's 1972 national championship team.

Stockton won the NCAA tennis championship in 1972.

McGowan has worked with such players as John McEnroe, Elliot Teltscher, John Austin, Tony Giammalva, Robert Van' Hof and Larry Gottfried.

McGowan recorded wins over several world-ranked players during a brief stint on the Pro Tennis Satellite Tour in 1978.

The exhibition match is free to the public.

and went on to a successful career on the pro tour.

Stockton has represented the U.S. in Davis Cup competition and has been ranked as high as No. 7 in the world.

The last two years, Stockton has been plagued with injuries. Hopefully, 1981 will prove to be an injury-free year for him.

McGowan, before coming to Bayou Bluff in the Spring of 1980, spent three years as the captain of the U.S. Junior Davis Cup squad.

McGowan has worked with such players as John McEnroe, Elliot Teltscher, John Austin, Tony Giammalva, Robert Van' Hof and Larry Gottfried.

McGowan recorded wins over several world-ranked players during a brief stint on the Pro Tennis Satellite Tour in 1978.

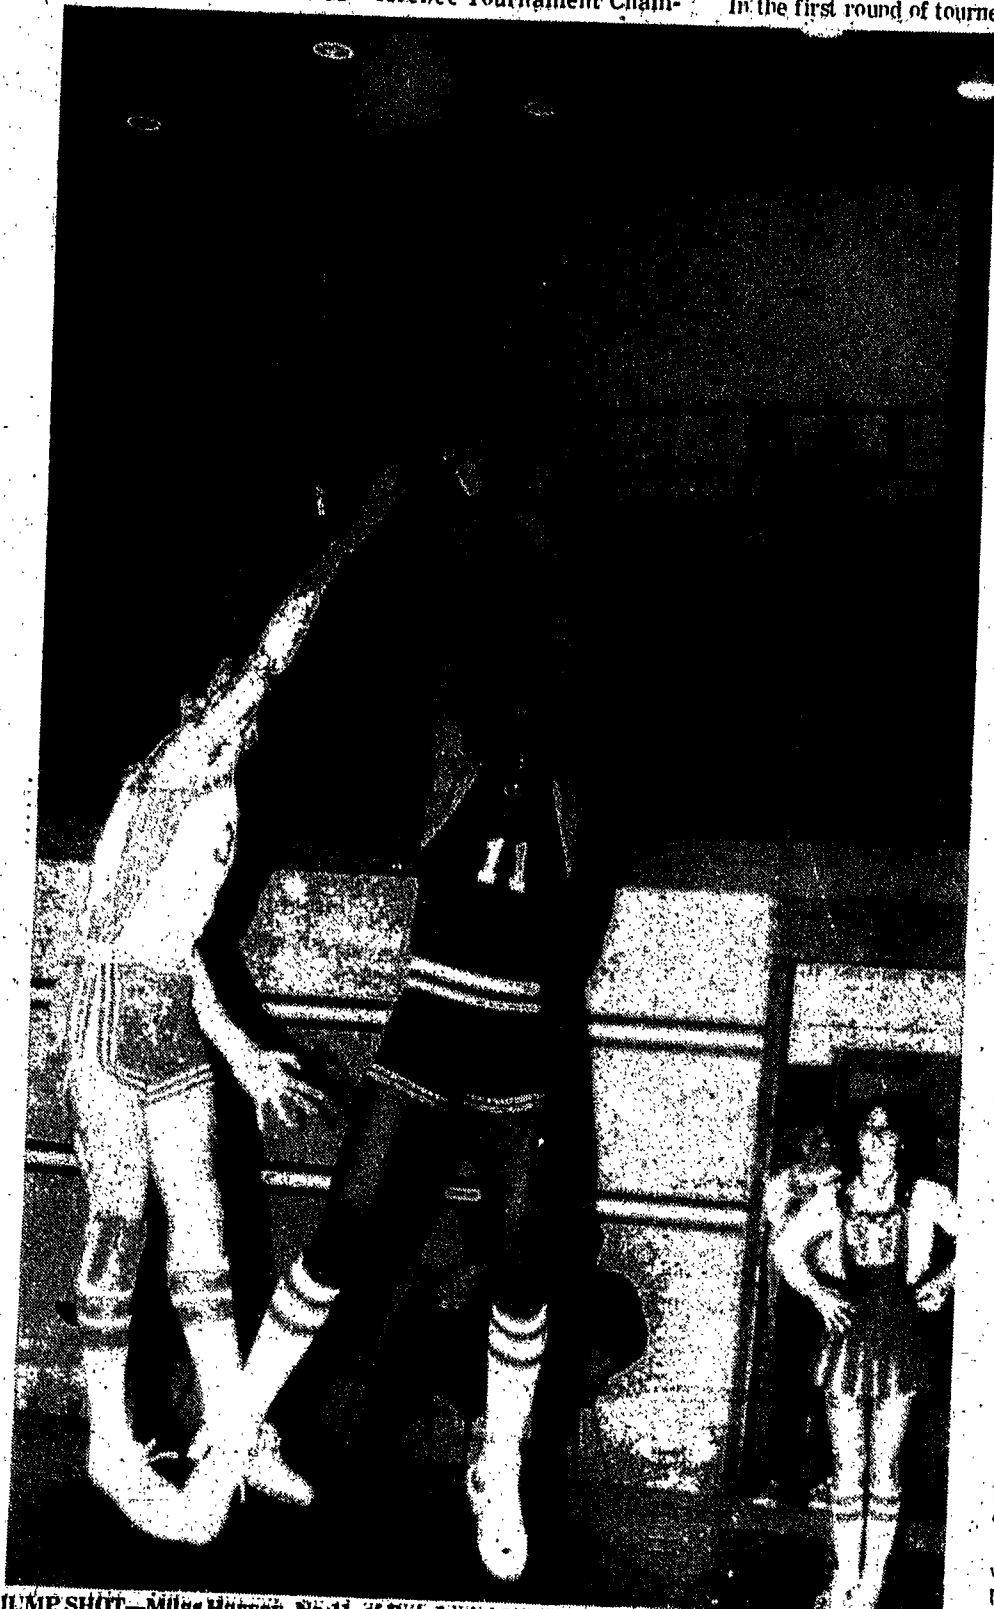

The exhibition match is free to the public.

Southwest Oklahoma signs Mackie Dedeaux

Grant-in-aid contracts have been signed by 15 members of the 1980 Mississippi Gulf Coast Junior College state championship football team, according to George Sekul, head Bulldog coach.

They include: —Sherman Robinson, Moss Point, 5-9, 170-pound runningback who signed with Southern Arkansas University. The All-Star player led the Bulldogs in rushing with 717 yards in 107 attempts for a 6.7 average and eight touchdowns.

—Edgar Harris, Vancleave, 6-2, 215-pound defensive end — Southern Arkansas University. He was one of the top Bulldogs against the pass, sacking the opposing quarterback nine times.

—Alan Picard, 6-3, 210-pound tight end from Biloxi — Nichols State University. He led the team in pass receptions with 16 receptions for 257 yards and three touchdowns.

—Jeff Smith, George County, 6-3, 220-pound offensive guard named to the Mississippi Junior College All-Star game — Nichols State University.

—Danny Bellew, Harrison Central, 6-3, 260-pound offensive tackle — Nichols State University. The two-year starter played in the All-Star and All-Star games.

—Gordon Fryfogle, 6-0, 180-pound quarterback from George County — Panhandle State University. He completed 42 of 91 passes with 730 yards and nine touchdowns.

—Olan Gunter, Biloxi, 6-1, 255-pound defensive end — Panhandle State University. He led the Bulldogs in defensive turnovers, recovering two fumbles and intercepting two passes.

—Mike Murphy, 6-0, 215-pound offensive tackle, and two-year starter from Harrison Central — Panhandle State University. —Walter Ballard, Pascagoula, 6-4, 222-pound defensive end — North Texas at El Paso. He was named All-State and honorable mention for All-Star.

—Randv Sentell, Notre Dame, 6-0, 255-pound defensive tackle — North Texas at El Paso. He was named to the Junior College Grid-Wire First Team All-American and to the Mississippi Junior College All-State and All-Star games.

—Arnold Seymour, Hollywood, Fla., 5-11, 245-pound defensive tackle — University of Miami. The most highly recruited squad member, Seymour was the fastest and quickest lineman on the Gulf Coast team. He was credited with 12 quarterback sacks, 36 tackles and 58 assists.

—Keith Warren, Gulfport, 5-11, 175-pound defensive back — Delta State University. The two-year starter led defensive secondary with three interceptions, 17 tackles and 24 assists.

—Jerome Taylor, 6-3, 190-pound linebacker from Pascagoula — Delta State University. The Bulldogs most active linebacker recorded three interceptions, 35 tackles and 51 assists. He played in the All-Star game and was All-State.

—Mackie Dedeaux, 6-0, 205-pound runningback from Pass Christian — Southwestern Oklahoma University. During his freshman year he led the team in rushing. In spite of injuries this season Dedeaux was second in rushing with 454 yards averaging 5.4 on 84 attempts and scoring seven touchdowns. He was named to the All-Star game.

—Lennie Steiner, 5-11, 200-pound linebacker from Theodore, Ala. — Livingstone University. He was named honorable mention in All-State.

Golden Eagle mascot named

Students and alumni at the University of Southern Mississippi have officially voted to name their live Golden Eagle mascot 'Nugget.'

The announcement was made at a recent basketball game on campus.

"Students and alumni submitted some 90 names last fall for consideration by a committee of students and alumni. This committee offered Victory for vote by the student body and active alumni," a USM spokesman noted.

"Nugget has been housed at Kamper Park since her arrival in Hattiesburg last August. Construction of a permanent aviary on campus is currently underway," the spokesman said.

"The facility, which is patterned after the one at Auburn University and meets Department of the Interior approval, will give the young bird room for free flight. The facility, designed to withstand hurricane winds of up to 120 miles per hour, is being financed by contributions from Southern students, alumni and friends," the spokesman explained.

"Two biology majors have the unique opportunity of serving as trainers for the eagle and are responsible for her care and handling. They are on half scholarships for the year," the spokesman said.

Persons interested in helping feed Nugget and meeting ongoing expenses may designate contributions for the 'live eagle' fund and send them to the USM Foundation, Southern Station Box 5013, Hattiesburg, Miss. 39401.

Forty-one vying for Wildcat posts

Experience in the skill positions highlights the 1981 spring football drills at Pearl River and an abundance of talent possessed by the offensive backfield should be a big plus come September.

Going into the third week of contact work, the Wildcats have 41 hopefuls participating in the third week of contact work, the Wildcats have 41 hopefuls participating in the daily sessions.

Thirty-two sophomores are returning from a 6-4 squad, including a closing win over Northeast Mississippi, the number one ranked team in the nation at that time.

Directing the 'Cat offense during spring practice is quarterback Lance Larson of Oak Grove.

As a freshman, Larson completed 30 of 75 passes for 453 yards and five touchdowns after taking over for Mark Tolar who was sidelined because of injuries.

Coach J.C. Arban thinks of Larson as "a good 'un." Lance came around very well for us last season.

He has a good arm, is quick, and smart, not only on the field but in the classroom as well.

Lining up behind Larson is a very talented group of running backs.

Bob Colette, 'Cats' leading

Hollis Peyton 101 yards, along with red-shirt Vance McNeil and sub-Bob Shelton are currently nipping and tuck in spring practice.

The 'Cats' third leading rusher last fall, Anthony Patterson of Picayune, is not involved with spring drills due to knee surgery but will return in September.

Arban is not sure what offense the Wildcats will use in '81, having used the wishbone primarily in '80.

"Right now we are experimenting with the 'I' formation and using the wishbone in goal-line situations. We really won't decide until we get all the kids in here (August) and see how well they pick up the system."

No matter what offense the Wildcats decide to use, to be successful, blocking from the offensive line is a must. That is one of Arban's main concerns.

"Depth in our interior offensive line is very thin due to graduation and injuries."

Defensively, Pearl River will field its usual aggressive hard-hitting squad. According to Arban, "We are in pretty good shape at linebacker and defensive backs. But here again, we are short on interior defensive linemen and ends."

If all goes as planned, the spring session will probably come to an end the last week of February.

Bay Junior Tigers, Tigerettes close with impressive records

Bay Junior High closed out its season Monday night by sweeping Hancock North Central in three basketball games.

In the first game, Coach Beth Watkins' seventh and eighth grade girls rolled over Hancock 36-21 after trailing at half-time, 15-17.

"They have developed a winning attitude by coming from behind in several games this season," Watkins said. Tracy Reed led all scorers with 19 points, followed by Charlotte Garrett with 12 points.

T. Necaise led Hancock with 6 points.

The Tigerettes, under the first year coaching of Miss Watkins, closed out the season with a 13-3 record.

In the second game, the ninth grade Tigerettes got revenge on Hancock, after losing earlier in the season.

They bounced back to win by a 33-26 score, as they never trailed in the game.

Terrie Rhodes led all scorers with 11 points, followed by Sandy Reynolds with 10.

This team has improved with every game and now knows what it takes to win. Their record has improved from 5-6 in mid season to close out at 11-7.

In the last game of the night things looked bad for ninth grade Tigers as they trailed Hancock North Central Hawks by 12 points 26-38.

However, the young Tigers came back to win 62-58. Willie Harvey led all scorers by scoring the nets for 33 points, most of those on long jump shots. Mark Johnson followed with 13 points. Gary Byrd with 6, Mike Noto with 4, Bryon Thomas with 2, Gifford Pace with 2, David McIver with 2, and Chris Dorsey with 2, as all of the Tiger players got into the scoring column.

Darren Ladner led Hancock with 20 points, followed by E.J. Garriaga with 14, and Randon Malley with 11.

The Tigers closed their season with a 17-5 record and as champions of the Pascagoula River Conference tournament.

Lady Cats scratch Dogs

Hinds, Perk dump PRC

Pearl River College dropped two games to the Hinds Eagles here Monday night with the Lady Wildcats losing 63-51 and the Wildcats dropping a 75-72 decision.

The Lady Wildcat setback put the PRC girls with a 9-3 south division mark and 13-6 overall ledger. Pearl River is still in first place in its division, however, their lead is now down to only one game with two contests remaining.

Fast Central is on tap for Thursday night in the PRC Coliseum with a road game scheduled for Tuesday night at Co-Lin. The Billy Holmes led girls have been in the top spot all year long, but the 7-4 Lady Bobcats are close behind.

"We have really been struggling the last few contests," Holmes said, "I just hope the girls have not peaked and are on the way down."

Pearl River can lock up the home position during the first game of the division playoffs with wins over East Central and Co-Lin. The East Central team defeated the PRC girls at Decatur by 15 points back in December.

The PRC girls also had to come from behind to knock-off the Lady Wolves from Co-Lin here at home two weeks ago.

Glenda Gardner led the PRC scoring Monday night with 14 points. Jennifer Ramshur and Tedia Hookin collected 11 and 10 points respectively. Linda Romines scored 24 for the Hinds.

Pearl River was down 43-33 at half, but fought back to a 53-49 count with less than seven minutes remaining. A dry spell caught the PRC team and they managed only two free throws the rest of the contest.

PRC's Wildcats had another close encounter but again lost to the Hinds during the last 10 minutes of the game. The lead was quickly erased after one shot.

The Holmes led Wildcats were down 71-70 with a minute to go before a missed shot and a foul shot pushed the Eagles to their fifth division victory. PRC can boast only a 2-10 division mark and 6-18 overall ledger.

Johnny Fells led the Wildcats with 21 counters, Renee Brown had 18, Barry Arcement 15 and Landry Caye 10.

PERK OUTPLAYS PRC — Perkinson outplayed and definitely out-named Pearl River last Thursday night as they defeated the Cats 78-54.

PRC stepped out onto the court with only seven players for the arch-rival contest with Gulf Coast, but managed to give the Bulldogs a run for their money.

The Cats came out of the game with a 6-17 overall and 2-9 in the southern conference.

First to score for the Wildcats was Johnny Fells. Fells did not of the shooting for the River, scoring 24 points to lead the Cats.

With 7:58 left in the first half of action, Fells scored with a jumper from the outside to put the Wildcats to within two points of the Dogs, 20-18.

Gulf Coast widened their lead from there, going out until halftime, the score being 37-30 at intermission.

Perk took the second half jump and controlled the ballgame from then on, with Pearl River scoring only two points in the first seven minutes of play.

Johnny Fells scored the only highlight of the second half with a slam-dunk at 8:03 on the clock, putting the River up to 44-56.

Managers turned-players, John Bailey and Randy Lott, scored the last six points of the game for the River, giving Gulfcoast the win 79-54.

Pearl River's Lady Cats rolled over arch-rival Perk 58-45 at Perk Thursday night.

The win against Gulf Coast upped their overall record to 13-5 and 9-2 in conference play.

The Billy Holmes' led girls are still on top of the southern division.

Within seconds after the initial jump-off, the Cats scored and held the lead throughout the entire contest.

With 1:51 left in the first half, Jennifer Ramshur of the Lady Cats dumped in two free-throws at put the River up 27-18. Perk came closest to the Cat girls when they scored with only four seconds left before half, making at 27-21.

After the halftime break, Pearl River widened their margin to 10 points with a lay-up by Glenda Gardner at 18:48 in the game. PRC's lead was narrowed to seven points with 7:24 left on the clock, but a Lawana Johnson hook-out put the Cats up again 43-34.

Leading by 12 points at 3:22 in the game, Shelley Dedeaux hit two foul shots, putting the Cats ahead 55-43.

Another free-throw by Dedeaux with only six seconds left on the board iced the cake for the Lady Wildcats at 58-45.

"They had a really good effort, a good ballgame, but they weren't as sharp as they should have been," said head coach Billy Holmes. "We missed free-throws and our execution was not real good, but of course we won and I'm pleased with that."

Leading scorer for the girls was Gardner with 18 points, followed by Ramshur and Johnson with 10 each.

Governor's Council on Fitness offers exercise program guides

Physical fitness is a concept which is difficult to define. One noted physical educator probably said it best when he said, "Physical fitness is the ability to carry out daily tasks with vigor and alertness, without undue fatigue, and with ample energy to enjoy leisure-time pursuits and meet unforeseen emergencies. Thus physical fitness is the ability to last, bear up, to withstand stress and to persevere under difficult circumstances where an unfit person would not."

The rewards are the satisfaction of being active, the after glow that results from the physical activity, and the health benefits. The Mississippi Governor's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports recognizes the fact that many Mississippians are either beginning exercise programs, or are seriously considering the benefits vs. the time consumption of an exercise program.

In this installment of "Lifestyles" (or "Healthstyles"), the Governor's Council will answer some of the most often asked questions about physical fitness programs. Much of the information comes from the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports, and the Ontario, Canada "Fitness Ontario" Program.

DO I NEED EXERCISE?

If you want to be fit, you do and being fit is very pleasurable and exhilarating. A "Fitness Ontario" pamphlet stated, "Being fit is like holding the high cards in a game or just simply playing for a while with the children."

You'll find that you can meet the challenges of every day living with much more ease. You'll also discover that you have more drive, increased energy, feeling of well-being, increased productivity, reduced stress and better sleep patterns. That's why you do need to exercise.

SHOULD I SEE MY DOCTOR BEFORE BEGINNING AN EXERCISE PROGRAM?

It's a matter of common sense. If you are out of shape, due to a lack of a regular exercise program then it would be wise to check with your family physician.

If you have ever had problems with fainting or severe dizziness, chest pains, heart trouble, high blood pressure, bone or joint problems, or if you have a family history of heart disease, it would be particularly wise to check with your physician before beginning a program.

HOW OFTEN SHOULD I EXERCISE?

The Governor's Council is recommending at least thirty minutes of exercise three or four times a week. Exercising every day, however, is even better.

If you are a beginner, the first six weeks should involve light activity, such as brisk walking, swimming, tennis, cycling or easy games of racquetball or handball. Other activities that you enjoy that maintain an elevated heart rate will also serve the purpose.

SHOULD I WARM-UP AND WARM-DOWN BEFORE AND AFTER AN ACTIVITY?

Sudden changes are not recommended. Your heart needs several minutes to adjust to your exercise.

If the exercise is too demanding the heart may not react quickly enough. This can put more strain on the heart muscle than is good for it.

An additional danger of sudden activity is the tearing or straining of muscle tissue and tendons. A warm-up will stretch the muscles and lessen the chance of injury.

The warm-down period following an exercise session can prevent dizziness as a result of blood suddenly pooling in the legs.

For a warm-up and warm-down the Governor's Council recommends a very slow jog for two or three minutes.

It is also wise before beginning an exercise activity to stretch your muscles to prevent damage to them. If you do not enjoy jogging, walking briskly serves the same purpose.

IS THERE DANGER IN EXERCISING TOO VIGOROUSLY?

We recommend that you do not over-exert yourself, especially if you have not exercised recently.

You should always be capable of carrying on a conversation while exercising. If you find you can't talk, you are over doing it. Slow down. In addition, you should not be exercising so vigorously that you make wheezing sounds.

SHOULD I VARY MY EXERCISE PROGRAM FROM DAY TO DAY?

Many people find that they can prevent boredom and muscle-joint injury by varying their exercise. If you enjoy activities such as tennis, racquetball, handball or swimming, you might add a walking program or jogging program to complement your other activities.

HOW MANY DAYS MUST I BE ACTIVE BEFORE I EXPERIENCE ANY CHANGE IN MY PERFORMANCE?

In two weeks, if not sooner, you will begin to notice an improvement in your ability to perform physical activity.

If you have been avoiding stairs, you'll notice that you will not be breathing heavily after two or three weeks of climbing two to three flights.

Working in your yard or around your house will not seem nearly as strenuous as it did before you began your program.

SHOULD I EXERCISE ALONE OR WITH OTHERS?

It is entirely up to you. Some people prefer to exercise alone, while others enjoy the companionship of a friend or several friends.

The important point is that you should have roughly the same endurance span as the person you are exercising with, or one or both of you will become frustrated.

CAN I LOSE WEIGHT BY EXERCISING?

The most sensible way to lose weight is to increase the number of calories you burn up while decreasing the number of calories you eat. Yes, exercise can help you lose weight, if you are willing to also limit the number of calories that you take in each day.

IS THERE ANY RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN EXERCISE AND STRESS?

One of the benefits of physical activity is that it is a diversionary activity which relieves boredom and continuous stress. You'll often feel a sense of relaxation after a brisk walk or other stimulating activity.

There is also evidence that the increase in your endurance through regular exercise diminishes the intensity of the responses you formerly received from stress situations. The increased endurance provides a certain amount of reserve against other stresses.

WHAT IS EXERCISE HEART RATE AND HOW CAN IT BE MEASURED?

During activity, your heart and lungs must work harder to meet the increased demands of energy. Your heart rate is a simple way of determining how effectively your heart is responding to these demands.

Immediately after your exercise, place two fingers along the thumb side of your wrist or press lightly against the side of your neck. You'll notice a slight pulsing or beating sensation.

Count the number of these beats in ten seconds, and multiply by six. This will give you the approximate number of heart beats per minute.

If you are between 20 and 30 years of age, you will want to exercise to elevate your heart rate between 110 and 150 beats per minute. If you are 31 to 40 years of age, your goal will be from 110 to 138 beats per minute.

If you are 41 to 50 years of age, your goal will be 96 to 126 beats per minute. And if you are 51 to 60 years of age, your goal will be from 90 to 114 beats per minute.

If your heart rate immediately after exercising is below the lower limit shown for your age, your activity may not be vigorous enough for cardiovascular improvement.

On the other hand if your heart rate is greater than the upper limit shown for your age, you may be over-exercising yourself and you should slow down.

CAN I USE MY HEART RATE AS AN INDICATOR OF WHETHER THE EXERCISE IS BENEFICIAL OR TOO STRENUOUS?

Yes, Your heart rate is an excellent indicator. For a beginner, the Council recommends that you keep your heart rate at approximately 150 minus your age level for six weeks.

A maximum exercise heart rate would be 220 beats per minute minus your age.

Another control to insure that the exercise is not too stressful was mentioned in a previous answer—you should be able to talk while being active.

Remember that your goal in increasing your heart beat is to strengthen the heart as a muscle, as well as increasing the blood flow through your cardiovascular system.

In next month's "Lifestyles" (or "Healthstyles"), the Governor's Council will answer additional questions on physical fitness and exercise programs. If you have a question, or if you would like more information on the Governor's Council contact the Council at the Office of the Governor, Walter Sillers Building, Jackson, MS 39202. ## Perk to open baseball season

Gulf Coast Junior College begins the defense of its 1980 state baseball title in a season opener at home on Friday, February 20.

The doubleheader at 1 p.m. on Perkinston Campus against East Mississippi will be the first of 58 games scheduled by Bulldog Coach Ken Farris.

Farris, whose teams have won 12 state championships, said last year's squad finished with a 33-12 win-loss record.

This year the Bulldogs will play 18 doubleheaders at home and 11 on the road. In each series, the first game, unless otherwise designated, will begin at 1 p.m. Here is the schedule:

Home — East Mississippi, Feb. 20-21; Millsaps College, Feb. 27; Utica, March 5; Lincoln Land Community College, March 7-8; Bishop State, March 17; Mississippi Delta, March 20-21; Pearl River, March 23; Henry Ford Community College, March 25; College of DuPage, March 26-27; East Central, April 3; Pensacola Junior College, April 4; Meridian, April 6; William Carey, 2 p.m. April 8; and Jones, April 18.

Away — William Carey, 5 p.m. March 2; East Mississippi, March 3; Copiah-Lincoln, March 9; Utica, March 10; Meridian, March 13-14; Jones, March 31; East Central, April 11; Bishop State, April 12; Pearl River, April 16; and Pensacola, April 20.

The South Division playoff is set for April 24-25 and the state playoff for May 1-2. The National Junior College Athletic Association Eastern Regional District series is May 14-15-16.

Cancer Society to benefit from Delta events

The Bolivar County American Cancer Society is sponsoring its first annual run, Sunday, March 22 at 1 p.m. on the Delta State University campus.

Registration will begin at 1 p.m. and the run starts at 2 p.m.

Dr. Lucien Ellington, run chairman, said a two-mile and five-mile run will be held for men, women and children, with a special three-man team competition planned.

"The five-mile run will be open to men, women and children in five age brackets beginning at 0-15, 16-25, 26-35, 36-45 and 46 and over, while the two-mile run is open to all with no age brackets," Ellington said.

Awards will be made to first, second and third place finishers in all age brackets and to the first place male and female overall finishers.

Entry fee is $6 and registration forms and information may be obtained by contacting Dr. Lucien Ellington, c/o DSU Social Science Department, Cleveland, MS 38733 or by phoning 843-8234.

Perkinston Choir performance set

Perkinston Junior College Choir, directed by Gene Clement, will perform at the University of Southern Mississippi's Choral Conductors Conference Feb. 6-7 in Hattiesburg.

Nearly 20 choirs and choral groups from four states will participate in the 11th annual conference, which features Douglas R. McEwen from Arizona State University, as guest clinician.

Dr. McEwen, who will rehearse and critique three guest choirs will also rehearse a Select Chorus, composed of talented members of visiting choirs. He has conducted more than 35 all-state choirs and many more festival choirs. McEwen has also served as the Director of Choral Masterworks for the International Youth and Music Festival in Vienna.

Other activities planned include music reading sessions, demonstration concerts and special interest sessions.

Perkinston will perform at 3:30 p.m. Feb. 7 and will also participate in the pre-conference junior college choral festival Feb. 5. All events will take place in USM's Performing Arts Center.

LEGAL NOTICE UNDER REGULATION 18

Alcoholic Beverage Control Division
State Tax Commission
State of Mississippi
Notice is hereby given pursuant to Regulation 18 of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Division of the State Tax Commission, Jackson, Mississippi, that an application for classification as a qualified "resort area" is being filed for an area located in the Clermont Harbor Community of Hancock County, Mississippi, more particularly described as follows, to-wit:

FIRST:
Lot 16, Sq. 37, and Lot 8, Sq. 42, Clermont Harbor, Hancock County, Mississippi, as per map or plat thereof on file and of record in the office of the Chancery Clerk of Hancock County, Mississippi.

SECOND:
That part of Lot 14 in Block 37, Clermont Harbor, Hancock County, Mississippi facing front street for a distance of 50.04 feet in width, with a similar width in the rear by a depth of 112 feet along the common dividing line of Lots 13 and 14, and a depth of 114 feet along the common dividing line of Lots 14 and 15, as per the official map or plat thereof on file and of record in the office of the Chancery Clerk of Hancock County, Mississippi.

As required by said Regulation 18 the content of the application shall include: (1) A map of the above described area clearly marked to indicate the specific area under consideration; (2) Reasons why the particular area should be classified as a Resort Area, to include the fact that the Clermont Harbor Community of Hancock County, Mississippi, is an area that attracts tourist and vacationers because of its historical and scenic attractions and facilities and that the area designated herein serves the tourist and vacationers to a very high degree; (3) Assurance from the Hancock County Sheriff authorities of Hancock County and other appropriate law officials that the local law enforcement officer would enforce the local Alcoholic Beverage Control laws of the State of Mississippi and rules and regulations of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission in such areas; and (4) A certified copy of the Order as entered on the Minutes of the Board of Supervisors of Hancock County regarding said resort area classification.

Request is hereby made pursuant to said regulation for an expression of public opinion from residents in the above described area under consideration in that connection with said approval, notice is hereby given that approval as a resort area classification will permit operation of open bars in the area by licensed individuals or corporations approved in accordance with the laws of the State of Mississippi and that decision on the application rests not with the Board of Supervisors of Hancock County, Mississippi, but with the State of Mississippi pursuant to the laws of the State of Mississippi.

This, the 2nd day of February A.D., 1981.

Bay-Waveland Pilgrimage slated March 25 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Residence of Mr. and Mrs. C.E. Glindmeyer, 604 North Beach Blvd., Bay St. Louis.

Residence of Mrs. Sidney J. Coogan, 200 Bismark St., Bay St. Louis.

Home of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Phillips, 222 North Beach Blvd., Bay St. Louis.

By MARY AUTENRITH PILGRIMAGE CHAIRMAN SCHEDULED EVENTS

The Annual Spring Pilgrimage sponsored by the Bay-Waveland Garden Club begins at the Garden Center on 114 Leonard Ave. in Bay St. Louis at 10 a.m.

A warm welcome will be extended with coffee at the center, along with information and maps regarding the rest of the tour.

Also of much interest will be a display of paintings by well-known local artist, Mrs. Robert G. Pritchett, who signs her oils under the name of 'C. Mills.'

This versatile artist paints flowers, ships, landscapes and still life. Her roses are so realistic that one patron remarked he could 'smell the fragrance.'

The center is graciously provided by the City of Bay St. Louis and is maintained by the Bay-Waveland Garden Club.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Milton A. Phillips Jr. at 222 North Beach Blvd. in Bay St. Louis, circa 1880, was built to take advantage of cool Gulf breezes.

Milton Phillips' great-grandmother, Mrs. Lucien

Myrtle Gex lived in this house as did his great aunt, Mrs. Victoria Gex.

Of special note are victorian antiques collected by Mrs. Phillips' mother, Mrs. Wena Gex Phillips.

Also of note is heart pine flooring and the 29-foot high cypress french doors.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. C.E. Glindmeyer at 604 North Beach in Bay St. Louis nestles under numerous massive oaks and faces the Bay of St. Louis.

The recently restored home dates back to 1914 and was originally built by Edwin Brandao.

Of special interest is the many antiques and other appointments purchased by the Glindmeyers at various estate auctions including four handmade, mahogany, beveled and leaded glass entrance doors, an oriental stained-glass window insert over a staircase, and original paintings and prints by the renowned artist Will Hinds.

An aperitif will be served on the patio.

A luncheon will be served at Bay-Waveland Yacht Club located on North Beach Blvd. in Bay St. Louis from 11:30 a.m. until 2 p.m.

The Ladies Auxiliary at the yacht club will prepare and serve lunch.

Prepaid reservations at $5 each must be made in advance. Mail checks with reservations to Bay-Waveland Yacht Club, P.O. Box 367, Bay St. Louis, Miss. 39520.

Lunch without reservation is available in many local restaurants.

The home of the Mr. and Mrs. Howard Parker at 115 Washington Street in Bay St. Louis is surrounded by branches of two-hundred year-old oaks which shade the lovely lines of this 75 year-old Victorian home.

The house features 5,000 square feet of living area with a formal parlor adorned with a baby-grand piano and a large reproduction of a baroque mirror.

There are six fireplaces, five bedrooms and five baths. Walls and ceilings are mostly paneled primarily with original natural beaded boards in the foyer and landing. Floors are carpeted, except for the formal dining rooms and parlor where fine quality old oak floors are apparent.

The home and garden of Mrs. Sidney J. Coogan at 200 Bismark Street in Bay St. Louis is a lovely contemporary home which has many interesting features.

Among these are a sunken living area with a vaulted ceiling, with many oriental pieces collected during several trips by Mr. and Mrs. Coogan. A small solarium is located just off the living room.

The home of Lt. Cmdr. and Mrs. James Walley Jr., at 750 South Beach Blvd. in Waveland is a recently renovated two-story home constructed for maximum use of its screen porches overlooking the Mississippi Sound.

A pleasant combination of the old and new, it features some unique building materials including old cypress french doors and windows, exposed wooden beams from a New Orleans warehouse, and wood decking from the former Edgewater Hotel in Biloxi. Also, its eight columns are constructed of brick salvaged from the porches and foundation of a previous home located at the same site which was destroyed by Hurricane Camille.

Soda pop "fizz" will help oil recovery plan

Carbon dioxide, the harmless formations in northeastern New gas that makes your soft drinks Mexico, transport it, about 250' fizz, is now going to be used to add miles by pipeline to the oil fields, "several hundred million" barrels and then inject it into the oil of crude oil to domestic energy bearing rock formations near the supplies.

The new use for an ancient substance is being planned by Standard Oil Company (Indiana). Standard plans to inject CO<sub>2</sub> into aging oil wells on the New Mexico-Texas border to increase the amount of crude that is recovered.

Oil wells typically yield only 30 to 40 per cent of their total reserves unless they are stimulated with methods known in the industry as enhanced recovery. For some time now, Standard has been injecting water into these wells to push the crude oil from the rock formations, where it is trapped.

But, a company spokesman said, water will move only a certain amount of crude oil. Carbon dioxide, unlike water, mixes with the crude oil and will carry it through the rock formations to where the wells can extract it. The injection of CO<sub>2</sub> is expected to increase the yield by as much as 20 per cent.

While the theory behind the CO<sub>2</sub> injection project is relatively simple, making the theory work is a huge undertaking.

Standard estimates it will spend $1.5 billion to develop CO<sub>2</sub> reserves in underground

The size of the CO<sub>2</sub> reserves alone is formidable. Standard estimates there are about eight trillion cubic feet of CO<sub>2</sub> underground in the area it will develop. By volume, eight trillion cubic feet is equivalent to about 40 per cent of the natural gas consumed each year in the U.S.

Like many energy projects, the CO<sub>2</sub> injection plan will take years to implement. The company spokesman said obtaining the necessary permits, building CO<sub>2</sub> extraction facilities in New Mexico, and other problems will mean this new method will not yield any oil until the late 1980's.

Loyola University plans elaborate career day

College-bound high school juniors and seniors from Louisiana and Mississippi will be able to make college and career plans through the Loyola University of New Orleans Exploration '81 program Feb. 13.

Exploration '81, to be held on the campus, will attract representatives from 75 U.S. colleges and universities who will be able to counsel students in their areas of interest. Students can compare costs and entrance requirements of various universities and can pick up applications.

Students can also take a complimentary self-scoring career test and meet with 60 career specialists qualified to answer questions about their particular fields. They include Shell Oil, IBM, Lykes, Mental Health Services and the AFL-CIO.

The program was put together by Dr. Rebecca Brechtel, Loyola's director of admissions, who says the event is a service to students because they can visit with representatives of state colleges and colleges that never before have made visits to their high schools, such as Yale, West Point and many Catholic, women's and black colleges.

"It also helps squelch some of the students' anxieties about going to college," Brechtel says.

High school counselors, the program's best critics, she says, felt last year's Exploration '80 was so helpful it should be repeated. Counselors requested, though, that even more career testing be offered this year. "We didn't expect the high degree of interest in taking tests that last year's students expressed," Brechtel says.

The program begins at 10 a.m., with college and career information booths open from 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Students with last names beginning with letters A-G will take career tests from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.; H-M, 12:30 p.m. to 1:30 p.m.; N-R, 1:30 p.m. to 2:30 p.m.; and S-Z, 3:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. All tests will be given in Nunemaker Hall.

Students also will receive a complimentary lunch and entertainment by the Loyola Jazz Band.

Further information can be obtained from the Loyola Office of Admissions, (504) 865-3240.

"FACES" GUESTS—Appearing as guests on Mississippi ETV's "Faces" series are, left to right, host Ruth Campbell; Charles Bannerman, chairman of the board, Delta Foundation, Greenville; Dr. Shirley Jones, chairman of the department of social work, University of Southern Mississippi; and Judge Reuben Anderson, Jackson. "Faces" can be seen at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, February 10, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

National VFW Auxiliary prexy visits Pass post

Cecil R. Ruddock, Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 5931 at 401 East Beach in Pass Christian, was the setting of a recent reception for VFW Auxiliary National President Jeannette Frank.

"Some fifty members from Posts and Auxiliaries No. 2434, No. 2539, No. 6285, No. 3937, and No. 5931 were on hand from along the Gulf Coast," a local auxiliary spokesman said this week.

"Pledge of allegiance to the flag was offered and a toast to the national president," the spokesman noted.

Mayor Zach Anthony of Pass Christian was introduced by Mistress of Ceremonies Norma Bonney.

"The mayor welcomed Frank to the Pass and expressed this appreciation to Post and Auxiliary No. 5931 members for their contributions through service to the community," the spokesman said.

"Frank and Auxiliary President Mary Fedele were introduced. Other honored guests were National Buddy Poppy Director Jean Woodard of Gulfport, National Security and Foreign Affairs Committee member Al Woodard of Gulfport, National Drum and Bugle Corps member Diamond Blakeney, National Aid-de-Camp Richard Gallagher. State officers present were Hulse Barnes, senior vice commander; Patricia Blakeney, president; Janice White Jr., vice president; Norma Bonney, guard; Virginia Zinkil, historian; Freda Barnes, veterans administration volunteer service representative for the Biloxi VA; Dot Powell, deputy VAVS representative for Biloxi VA; Lou Mattison, deputy VAVS representative Biloxi VA; Velma Smandra, grand president of MOCA of Mississippi; Tommy Esposito served as official photographer for the national president's visit," the spokesman explained.

"Tables with white lace tablecloths were beautifully decorated with the National President's favorite colors—red, white and blue streamers, red carnations, and candelabra holding red, white and blue candles. Food was prepared by Alma Ruspoli, chairman and other Auxiliary No. 5931 members. Invocation was given by Janice White," the spokesman reported.

Auxiliary No. 5931 President Mary Fedele thanked everyone for coming and presented Mrs. Frank with a 1980 Carnival Medallion necklace," the spokesman said.

"The 1981 Carnival Race is in full swing now in Pass Christian," the spokesman added.

Ruspoli's gift to the national president was an antebellum doll with lace dress adorned with Buddy Poppies. Buddy Poppies are the national flowers of the VFW. Benediction was offered by Lou Mattison," the spokesman noted.

"Alma Ruspoli guided the president's party through the VFW building and told them some of the history of the building which was once a settlement house and is over 120 years old," the spokesman added.

Maid of Orleans immortalized at Shieldsboro Square Arcade

By JOE PILET
Bay St. Louis has at least one thing in common with Place des Pyramides in Paris, as well as the market place in Rouen and numerous other cities, towns and villages throughout France.

An that is a fine cast iron statue of Jeanne d'Arc (Joan of Arc). Owned by Dorothy and Donald Brown, the likeness of the "Saint of Soldiers" may be seen in Shieldsboro Square Antique Arcade.

JOAN OF ARC STATUE

Sculpted as a general with helmet at heel and sword unsheathed, Joan of Arc's stance is one of courage, probably depicting victory for France over the British in the siege of Orleans in 1429.

Prior to this battle every soldier participating had received Holy Communion.

Joan gave credit for her brilliant military strategy in this and four other battles to obeying instructions she had from "voices from heaven."

Women in battle—a controversial topic of today—is not a new thought.

History names other women who have fought valiantly for their country.

It was not easy for Joan, a simple peasant girl who could neither read or write, to convince King Charles VII of her obsession. She was laughed at, thought to be mad, and roughly discouraged when asked for command over the king's troops.

A series of "tests" were given her before the king gave a sword and permission. Even then, soldiers at first were hesitant to follow the lead of a mere 17-year-old maiden.

Did Joan hear voices? Her battle records were convincing.

Did she have true courage? Though seriously wounded she repeatedly returned to front and dangerous combat positions.

At the end of her mission, did some extra sensory perception prompt her to ask for permission to return to Domremy? When her request was denied she returned to battle, was captured by English allies who in turn sold her to the English for a sum of 16,000 francs (at that time it would have amounted to approximately $3,000).

She was tried as a witch, convicted as a heretic and condemned. She was burned at the stake. Brave men wept. Calmly with eyes turned to heaven she accepted her fate.

Some 24 years later her trial was reopened. The Pope pronounced her innocent. Then, in 1909 she was beatified and in 1920 Pope Benedict XV declared her a saint.

The history of Bay St. Louis has roots in France. Early French explorers discovered our quiet bay and lovely shores and named them in honor of the sainted King Louis IX.

It is fitting and proper that the statue of Joan of Arc should be prominently featured in historical Shieldsboro Square.

We too hear voices. Not heavenly, but not less sincere saying: "Welcome to our shores, Joan d'Arc."

Red flannels plagued tender skin

By S. GRADY THIGPEN

All the children where I grew up wore red flannel underwear in winter.

That was before union suits or "long barrels" were offered for sale in stores.

No factory-made underwear was sold in the stores where I lived when I was a boy. Women bought the cloth, or wove it in the old fashioned way at home, and then sewed the garment up.

I'll never forget how the red flannel would irritate the tender skin, but it did keep us warm in cold weather.

When the first cold spell came in the fall our mother, who had prepared them in advance, would put the red flannels on all her children.

The first few days we wore it, the red flannel would sting and irritate the skin and be most uncomfortable.

Also, in unseasonably warm weather it was highly disagreeable. I myself seemed to itch all over, but was afraid to scratch in the presence of company, as my mother would not approve of it.

After we donned the red flannels, we did not dare take them off until the warm weather the next spring about April.

If the fall weather turned warm as it often did, after we had started wearing them, we would be more than ever uncomfortably hot and itchy, but we were not allowed to take them off as it was said we would be sure to take a cold or even pneumonia, the most dreaded of all diseases back then.

All the boys where I lived back in the old days wore short pants until they were around 13 or 14 years old. I wore long stockings knitted by my grandmother, or by my mother.

Those of us who wore the short pants would wrap the bottoms of the red flannel drawers tightly around our legs and pull the stockings up over them to keep our legs warm.

About the time I was 14 or 15 years old, the stores began selling "long barrels" for winter wear.

They had a smooth outside surface with a soft inside.

They covered the whole body from the neck down to the ankles. They were most comfortable in cold weather, but like red flannels they were disagreeably hot, scratching and itchy if it warmed up even a little bit.

The "long barrels" had openings at the proper places both front and rear, with the rear opening covered by a flap with 2 or 3 buttons on it.

Because the buttons in the rear were out of sight and could be found only by feeling for them, it was easy to get a button in the wrong buttonhole so that if one sat down there would be a lump to make sitting uncomfortable.

Also if any of the buttons got into the wrong holes a lumpy place would show through the trousers as one walked about.

A lump in the rear and others at the shoe tops made a person look ridiculously lumpy.

As houses were not heated back in the old days, in cold weather we would sleep with our "long barrels" on to keep warm on bitter cold nights.

Back then in most homes there were not enough beds for each person to have a bed to himself.

I slept with a brother who was 2 years younger than I. Even when I went off to school I slept in a double bed with another boy.

The luxury of a bed all to one's self was something I did not have when I was growing up.

Sleeping with our "long barrels" on, it was easy to get one's foot into the rear opening of our bed fellow's "long barrels."

In trying to get it loose one would invariably awaken his bed fellow when a toe nail ripped into tender skin, and then there would be a scuffle to get loose, and probably a fight with the other boy before it was over with.

The girls wore the same kind of underwear as the boys except they would probably put some ruffles on the bottoms of their drawers.

The only time in cold weather we ever got rid of our "long barrels" for even a short time, was on Saturday night when everyone in the house had to take a bath, whether it was needed or not.

The kitchen stove would be kept almost red hot for some time heating the water for the baths.

Our bath tub when I can first remember was a wood tub placed near the hot stove because the wood tub would fall apart unless water was kept in it all the time.

Later on we used a zinc tub. The water was drawn by hand from a bored well under a shed next to the back porch. It was placed on the stove in containers, usually cast iron cooking pots to get hot.

We would mix enough hot water with the cold to get the right temperature. In cold weather we would take our baths as fast as we could, jump out of the tub to stand near the hot stove, turning from side to side to try to keep all parts of the body warm as we toweled ourselves dry.

Then we'd jump into a newly laundered pair of "long barrels" and to bed while the next person would be preparing his bath. Because of the labor involved, several of the family would use the same warm water.

The kitchen stove and the old time fireplace were the only places in the house where one could stay reasonably warm in cold weather. There was no hole in the floor to flood the house with warm air back then.

A big advantage in the old days was that the air in the houses was always pure, fresh and unpolluted and the house never stuffy or overheated as we often find today.

Another thing, we were much healthier too, back then.

Dixie National's annual production opens this week

The 16th annual Dixie National Livestock Show opens at the state fairgrounds complex in Jackson Thursday and continues through Sunday, February 22.

This year's Dixie National includes Appaloosa horse competition, dairy animal show, lamb show, steer show, beef show, market hog show, Palomino show, Paint horse show, pen bull show, Polled Hereford show, Angus show, Barrow show, Santa Gertrudis show, Brahman show, Charolais show and Quarter Horse show.

"Once again, it is time for the Dixie National, Mississippi's blue ribbon event," said Agriculture and Commerce Commissioner Jim Buck Ross. Ross is also chairman of the Mississippi State Fair Commission which sponsors the Dixie National.

Ross continued, The Dixie National continues to be a reflection of progress and growth in Mississippi. The Mississippi State Fair Commission is proud to host such a spectacular event."

"The Dixie National is one of the largest livestock shows East of the Mississippi. It has enjoyed phenomenal growth over the past 16 years," said Bill Orr, Executive Director.

Orr said top exhibitors from Mississippi and across the United States will receive thousands of dollars in premiums or cash awards for their efforts, at this year's Dixie National.

Tommy Steiner's world championship rodeo is again scheduled in conjunction with the Dixie National. Eight performances of the rodeo will be staged in the Coliseum beginning Thursday, February 12.

Evening performances are at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, February 12, Friday, February 13, Saturday, February 14, Monday, February 16, Tuesday, February 17 and Wednesday, February 18.

In addition, there will be matinee performances at 2 p.m. Saturday, February 14 and Sunday, February 15.

Two of country music stop performers, Jim Stafford and Joe Stampley will provide the entertainment during intermission of the rodeo.

Stafford, known for his songwriting and singing abilities, will perform beginning Thursday, February 12 and continuing through Sunday, February 15.

Stampley will entertain Monday, February 16 through Wednesday, February 18.

A versatile performer, Stafford has recently added acting to his career. He makes his screen debut in the current Clint Eastwood film, "Any Which Way You Can."

Stampley is also co-host of ABC television's "Those Amazing Animals."

Like country performer, Conway Twitty, singer Joe Stampley got his start in music as a rock singer with the group, "The Uniques."

Stampley got his break in country music when he was inspired by his son to write "Quante McGraw from Smackover, Ark.," which sold 35,000 copies.

More recently, Stampley has lent his vocal talents to dueting with another talented country performer, Moe Bandy who is from Meridian.

Rodeo tickets are $8 and $5 for reserved seats and $5 for general admission and may be purchased either with charge cards, check or money order by writing Dixie National Rodeo, P.O. Box 892, Jackson, Miss. 39205.

Tickets will be sold over the Coliseum ticket office counter beginning Monday, January 12.

Admission to all livestock events is free.

Fish to be drafted to monitor dangerous chemicals in Gulf

The Environmental Protection Agency has awarded the University of Southern Mississippi College of Science & Technology in Hattiesburg $80,000 to use Gulf of Mexico fish to warn scientists of the presence of dangerous chemicals.

"If scientists can recognize effects shown by fish exposed to cancer causing chemicals, both the fishing industry and the National Cancer Institute will benefit," said Dr. B.J. Martin, research coordinator and biologist at USM.

"The study now underway could also uncover better methods for screening chemicals and detecting cancer. Common Gulf fish, such as sheepshead minnows, when raised for experimental use, may in some ways prove better laboratory subjects for cancer research than mice and rats," he explained.

"Fish may handle carcinogens metabolically as much like human beings as rats, in addition to showing signs of cancer quicker than lab rodents. Fish show signs of tumors 20-30 times faster than people. The cold-blooded invertebrates would also be more economical for researchers," reported Martin.

"The cooperative agreement between the university and EPA will provide for testing fish from three areas of the Gulf, including Mobile Bay. The occurrence of tumors, both benign and malignant, and other fish diseases may reveal dangerous levels of potential cancer causing agents in those environments," Martin noted. "Fish studied in natural habitats could be the early warning system" cancer researchers and environmentalists need to locate and eliminate potential carcinogens. The fish will serve as biological indicators for chemicals in the water and scientists in return can keep fish populations healthy and plentiful," he said.

Martin said most of the locations where fish will be collected are likely not heavily contaminated with carcinogens but contain low levels of petroleum products and discarded everyday chemicals which can contain potential cancer causing agents similar to those in cigarettes.

"Carcinogens probably will not cause dramatic fish kills like a toxic agent," Martin said.

"They would more likely cause stress and lowered disease immunity in fish populations. Lengthy exposures to carcinogens could therefore cause tumors and other diseases to increase and ultimately cause problems for the fishing industry along the Gulf by decreasing the fish populations," Martin explained.

The long-term project was established and funded by the National Cancer Institute and the Environmental Protection Agency. For the next year the study will primarily focus on the institute's concern of finding known human carcinogens and EPA's responsibility of protecting the marine environment.

RECYCLING TRASH
Solid wastes continue to pollute air and groundwater despite costs of $7 billion a year to remove them from residential and commercial premises.

The costly problem is being cleaned up through recycling—transforming trash into cash.

"Estimates show two-thirds of all trash is reusable through recycling," said Bob Kochitsky, coordinator for Gov. William Winter's Recycling Program in addressing a University of Southern Mississippi audience in Hattiesburg recently.

On a personal level he noted each person in America will generate a lifetime garbage heap 600 times their adult weight, almost all of which is recyclable for reuse.

"With the growing concern for high taxes and the depletion of natural resources, especially non-renewable energy sources, it is natural that our current throw-away habits and the enormous cost of removal would be seen as damaging to our society," Kochitsky stated as the reasons for Winter's project. This year Winter signed Executive Order No. 304 requiring all state agencies under his office to recycle their paper to conserve natural resources.

The governor has since accepted an offer from the Center for Human Development in Jackson, non-profit organization concerned with recycling, to organize the recovery of resources from state agencies.

"The money generated by the State of Mississippi Art of Recycling Treasure (GET SMART) Program is used by the center to promote recycling in Mississippi," a USM spokesman noted recently.

"In Jackson alone it is estimated that $100,000 a year could be saved in garbage removal tax dollars if citizens, businesses and government agencies developed continuing resource recovery programs," the spokesman said.

The aluminum industry has estimated that 95 percent of the energy needed to produce aluminum is saved when cans and other products are recycled, and similar savings count for paper and glass industries.

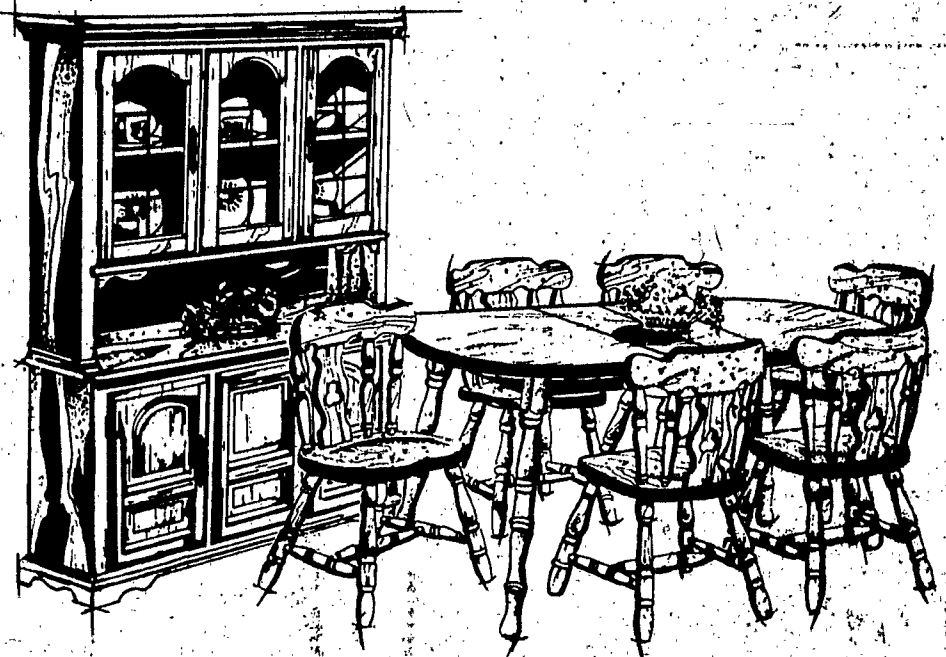

Kochitsky interjected that incinerators and landfills pollute air and groundwater.

No one knows when the bill for this will come due: Clearly, recycling pays off in direct income, in stewardship of resources and in the preservation of the environment. Everyone wins when people turn trash into treasure and recycle," Kochitsky explained.

YOU AND YOUR PET

By Robert L. Stear, D.V.M.
Manager of Veterinary Services
Norden Laboratories

PICKING A PUPPY FOR YOUR FAMILY

Each week, hundreds of people visit animal shelters and breeders to select pets. Some will select large strong dogs to guard property. Others will choose petite canines as companions for elderly relatives. But most will be there to find pets for their children.

Careful observation and handling of the puppies or dogs available for adoption can make the difference between choosing a friendly, responsive animal and one that never quite fits into your household. Let me review a few techniques you can use at the shelter or kennel you visit. These steps take only a few minutes and offer information about the animal's personality.

When you first approach a group of puppies, notice which ones run toward you and which hold back. Eliminate from further consideration those that don't approach you. The reason for this is to eliminate puppies that may have already developed an aversion to people. Also, a pup that lags behind, with noticeably less energy than its kennel mates, may be ill.

Now you're ready to test the acceptable puppies on an individual basis. Place a pup on the floor some distance from you, and call to it. If the puppy comes to you readily, lift the puppy up above your head, with both hands under its forelegs, and muzzle toward you. If he settles down, speak reassuringly. A pup should be given three tries to calm down while held in the air. Roll the puppy over on its back, lift it into the air, and repeat the previous test.

Next, lay the pup down on its side on the floor, and hold it there for about half a minute. Hold him by the scruff of the neck with one hand and use the other hand to keep him flat. Stroke the pup's belly to see if he trusts you in this vulnerable position. The best response would be the pup's lifting a hind leg to expose its tender underside, as a sign of trust. While the pup is lying down, also hold its muzzle for a few seconds, and look for signs of resentment or irritation.

Finally, you repeat the approach test. Release the pup from its position on the floor, and wait to see if he comes to you. Pet him briefly, get up, and walk away while you coax him to follow. If he comes eagerly and did not put up a strong protest during the previous tests, the pup gets a high rating as a potential family pet.

These tests are designed to measure a puppy's acceptance of human beings as well as its tolerance of authority. They are most accurate when used with puppies between 7 and 16 weeks of age. This is the period when puppies are most impressionable to human contact. Their experiences during this time will lay the foundation for their actions toward humans later.

Several organizations that train dogs recognize this basic concept and make special provisions for puppies to have social contact during this period. This is a primary reason why puppies destined to be guide dogs for the blind are boarded with private families for several months. These animals are more reliable, and easier to train than dogs that have had little human contact.

There are not as many ways to test an older dog. An older animal should still approach you readily, and tolerate your touch on its head. The dog that lays its ears back or shies away is not a good candidate.

Once you've made your selection, you should ask the shelter attendant or kennel manager for information about the dog's health. Is it wormed? Has it been vaccinated against the major contagious diseases? Are you entitled to a certificate describing the dog's state of health? Even if all the above answers are yes, I would recommend an early visit to your veterinarian. A thorough examination by a veterinarian at this early stage can save you time and money in the long run. This is especially important if the pet will join other animals in your household.

New natural gas is coming from the Texas Panhandle, Oklahoma, and Rocky Mountains

When the federal government approves and work is completed, natural gas will be coming into the Gulf South from distant new sources. With one or more pipeline companies we plan to construct a large diameter gas transmission pipeline from the Texas Panhandle through Oklahoma to a North Louisiana junction with our 9000-mile system. It's called the Trans-Anadarko Pipeline System.

This $400 million, 635-mile line will connect new gas reserves along its route across Oklahoma and Texas, and through arrangements with others, will tap rich reserves in the Rocky Mountains. This venture once again demonstrates the strength of our commitment to meet Gulf South energy requirements.

That's the way we do things at United Gas—where the search for new energy never stops.
